WAKE FOREST UNIVERSITY
SCHOOL of DIVINITY
Founded in 1999, the School of Divinity is a young and dynamic theological institution that prepares men and women to minister in a rapidly changing world. Our goal is to prepare leaders who balance deep thinking with compassion and wisdom as they work toward God’s justice in the world and bring good news to those in need.

The core of the Master of Divinity curriculum includes study of the Bible, pastoral care, systematic theology, church history, ethics, and spirituality, but students are encouraged to enrich their theological education by drawing on all the rich academic resources of the University.
Where personal faith becomes a decision to lead.
Today, more than ever, the church and its ministries are alive with possibilities, challenges, and change.
What will you do with your life?
There is no single pathway for this intense and rewarding journey.
How will you live your faith in the world and make a difference?
At Wake Forest University, you will begin the generous process of transforming your faith into a powerful instrument of human goodwill.